Coach's Corner

Winter is a time where the flu and other viruses are going around. These viruses can spread quickly during the colder weather. This is why it's so important to keep your immune system fully charged and ready to fight off any infections. How do you do this, you ask? Well, there's a lot of ways. Some useful tips to keep your immune system strong are to exercise regularly, get lots of sleep, wash your hands and don't touch your face, eat nutritious foods and drink plenty of water, and take a probiotic or multivitamin. All of these things will help to keep your immune system strong therefore, less sickness you will have to fight.
